Imagination. Creativity. Perfection.

Music education in the world is constantly changing and evolving due to the neo-modern socioeconomic and cultural dynamics. Old-school music pedagogy is not considered to be a productive methodology for teaching music in modern times. Modern Music pedagogy includes not only Music theory and practice in one or several traditions of music but also connects with many other different yet related doctrines. Music is being recognized in modern education as an interdisciplinary doctrine which interacts with Sociology, Cultural Studies, Philosophy, Mathematics, Anthropology and Archaeology and most importantly Communication and Business. The History of Music Education in Sri Lanka dates back to the 1940s with the establishment of "Rajaya Lalitha Kalayathanaya". During the past 80 years of Sri Lankan Music and dancing education, the state educational system was able to produce only a handful of well-trained musicians and hundreds of Music teachers. SLTC being one of the leading non-state Universities in Sri Lanka has identified the potential and the necessity for creating a space for a world standard Music Degree programme while retaining the local identity. SLTC has also identified the importance of Music research and its impact on both Music pedagogy and industry.

Eligibility: A minimum of three simple (S) passes or above in a combination of approved subjects (single sitting) and a minimum score of 30% for the Common General Paper at the G.C.E A/L Examination conducted by the Department of Examinations, Sri Lanka, or any other qualification of comparable standing such as Edexcel / Cambridge Examinations recognized by the University Grants Commission (UGC) of Sri Lanka.

Bachelor of Music Honours

SLTC offers a four-year undergraduate degree in Music, the first of its kind to be offered by a non-state university in Sri Lanka.

Consequently, the SLTC Music programme has become the only alternative academic degree other than the Music degree programmes offered by state-owned institutions which offer a first degree in Music. While being the youngest institution of its calibre, SLTC is already being recognized as an institution that offers the most updated and innovative music degree in the country.

The objectives of creating such a Music educational programme are,

- Introducing a globally recognized global qualification that would offer Sri Lankan youth a relevant and updated Music education
- Creating a platform for Music research for both local and international researchers.
- Producing world standard Music Composers, Instrumentalists, Recording Engineers, Singers, Analysts, Critics, Researchers and Academics with local cultural and ideological identities.
- Creating a platform for interdisciplinary collaboration for innovation and creation.
- Making SLTC the cultural hub in the region of Asia for both local and global musicians, artists, writers, critics and academics to exchange knowledge and to involve and collaborate in a broader scope.
- To offer postgraduate programmes and higher educational opportunities for both local and international academics in the future.
- Engaging with the local and global music business with local identities.
- Establishing the most advanced High tech recording studio to facilitate the movie industry in Sri Lanka.
- Making an environment for local and international professionals to come and share their knowledge and expertise with the new coming artists.
- Making the best environment for the students to mingle with the professionals in the Movie industry, Music industry, Literature, Electronic and Social Media etc.

Why SLTC?

SLTC is Sri Lanka's largest non-state research university and offers a wide array of undergraduate and postgraduate programmes, ranging from engineering to music.

Founded in 2015 as the country's first non-state engineering university, we have redefined how higher education is perceived in the country by restructuring our own operations and academic offerings centred around a holistic student centric approach.

Surrounded by lush greenery on a sprawling estate in the suburbs of Colombo, the university's iconic main campus offers its residents the ideal university experience, and the TRACE Campus in Colombo presents its residents with the ultimate urban university atmosphere with all its opportunities.

The university's culture is developed on promoting research and innovation and is the prime focus of its academic operations. Equipped with state-of-the-art equipment, modern infrastructure and convenient access to resources, SLTC presents an ideal study destination for those who seek to advance in their professional and scholarly careers.
